

Are your tenants starting to become a real headache?

Is your Rent always delayed or never paid?

Are you getting midnight calls from neighbours complaining about the noise?

Does it seem like there are nothing but constant problems?

"Unless Landlords get a grip at an early stage" said Paul Blakey a litigation lawyer at local firm Stokes Solicitors "problems can spiral out of control; it can be very expensive distressing and time consuming to try to get possession of your property yourself.

You'll need a local professional advisor who will help you every step of the way and whom you can meet face-to-face to discuss your case.

At Stokes we have many years of experience in this area of work and there isn't a problem which we haven't come across before!"

I was impressed with the speed at which I could obtain an appointment, the ability of Paul Blakey to grasp the problem, supply the relevant advice and resolve the matter, all within an acceptable time frame and at a reasonable fee.
